Planning the Next conferences

Prof. Hiram Chodosh, President Claremont McKenna College California

Mr. Mihai Chirica – TBD

13:00 – 14:00 Lunch

Departure or optional social event

We will have an optional social event after the lunch on the second day of the conference. If you are interested in attending, please contact the conference events manager, Jessica McFarlane at lawevents@qmul.ac.uk, who will be able to arrange this. The strict deadline for declarations of interest is strictly Monday 11 June 2018.

14:00 – 16:00 Visit to the Royal Courts of Justice

The Royal Courts of Justice (London’s High Court) located on London’s Fleet Street. It houses, together with the Court of Appeal, one of the senior courts of England & Wales. It has three main divisions (The Queen’s Bench Division, The Chancery Division and The Family Division) and hears appeals from the High Court and the Crown Court. It also used to accommodate the court of last resort and highest appellate court in the UK, until the Supreme Court (another interesting London courthouse) was established in 2009.

The building is reminiscent of a cathedral in both style and scale. Soaring arches and beautiful stained glass windows ornamented with the coats of arms of Lord Chancellors and Keepers of the Great Seal, combined with a mosaic marble floor leading to a maze of enchanting corridors to create a majestic setting for visitors.

Formal Dinner: Notes for guests

About the Reform Club

The Reform Club was founded in 1836, in Pall Mall, in the centre of what is often called London’s Clubland. The founders commissioned a leading architect of the day, Charles Barry (who inter alia was the architect of the rebuilt Houses of Parliament), to create an imposing and palatial clubhouse. It is as splendid today as when it opened in 1841. Membership was restricted to those who pledged support for the Great Reform Act of 1832, and the many MPs and Whig peers among the early members developed the Club as the political headquarters of the Liberal Party. The Reform Club is no longer associated with any particular political party, and now serves a purely social function. Today's Reformers are men and women drawn from many backgrounds and a wide field of professional life. Former members included British Prime Ministers such as Winston Churchill, Herbert Asquith, and Lord Palmerston. Writers included H.G Wells, Henry James and others. The club will always be associated with Jules Verne's Around the World in Eighty Days.

Dress Requirements

Gentlemen are required to wear a jacket and shirt with full collar. Ties are encouraged but not required. Ladies are required to dress with similar formality. Jackets may be removed at any time in the summer months of June, July and August. Recognised national and religious dress and service dress uniform may be worn at any time.

The following are unacceptable, and door staff will refuse admittance if you wear:

- Denim
- Track suits, leisure wear, shorts, leggings, jodhpur-style trousers and other similar attire
- T shirts, sweat shirts, bodice/cropped tops and similar items.
- Training shoes, hiking boots, deck shoes, plimsolls, flip-flop sandals and similar sports style footwear.

Hotel Recommendations and Social Arrangements for Judicial Independence Conference

The School of Law at Queen Mary University of London looks forward to hosting you for the Judicial Independence Conference in June. Here are some hotel recommendations and details of the social arrangements taking place during the conference.

Hotel Recommendations

Club Quarters Hotel – St Pauls

Next to the St. Paul's Cathedral and located in the courtyard of the historic Stationer's Hall, this CQ location sets its modern accommodation against the 800-year history of the City of London area. Close to many businesses as well as the Museum of London, Tate Modern, and the Millennium Bridge, guests of all itineraries will be pleased to find the City's sights just steps away.

Address: 24 Ludgate Hill, London, EC4M 7DR

Hotel Website: <https://clubquartershotels.com/locations/club-quarters-hotel-st-pauls-london>

Price: We have secured a rate of £181.00 per night if you wish to stay at the Club Quarters hotel.

If you wish to do so, you have two options:

- 1) Call Member Services under 0207 451 5800 and quote the Group Code QMUL07.
