Dear speakers and dear All colleagues,

We are pleased to report that the conference in Jerusalem on Measuring Justice: Efficiency Quality and Independence, was a great success .It was held both online for the overseas participants due to the health restrictions and in person for the domestic participants.

All the speakers on the update program in fact presented their papers and presentations .All the 9 sessions were available online, were recorded, and are now available on YouTube. Here is the link

We Also attach Press reports of the conference proceedings as well as interviews with speakers and articles by Speakers .

We wish to express our many thanks to all the institutions, which were the partners and supporters of this very significant conference: Claremont McKenna College for their generous support of the conference, the Hebrew University for hosting the conference, and the Israel Bar association for their assistance. We are indebted to all the speakers for their contribution to the academic and professional part of the project.

Thanks are due to our team that assisted us in organizing the conference. We thank the team at Claremont McKenna College, Cheryl Aguilar and Janet Stenmo. We thank the Jerusalem team: Zehava Saar, the conference coordinator and other members of the team Maor Lankri, Karin Shani, Noga Orda and Shlomo Biton, and particularly Ohad Halevy and the remote and online media team.

The conference papers, according to our customary long practice of four decades, will be reviewed for publication in our next volume, number six, in the series of books on judicial independence. It will be entitled "Measuring Justice". Please plan to send your revised papers adapted to articles for publication by the end of July 2022.

The conference approved the proposed amendment Article 1.3A to the Mt Scopus International Standards. The proposed amendment, which was distributed to you all, was approved after inserting changes suggested by Prof. Hiram Chodosh.

We are attaching the text as approved in two versions: a clean copy and a copy with track changes. The conference decided to allow additional comments to the approved text for the next 30 days.

Please be so kind to review Amendment 1.3A and send us your comments if you so wish.

We wish to update that a continuation conference on measuring justice is planned at Claremont McKenna College in the Fall of 2022. Details will be given at a later stage.

Finally, we wish you all Happy and Healthy 2022.

Warmest Regards

Prof. Shimon Shetreet Prof. Hiram Chodosh Prof. Eric Helland
